

PROOF-OF-ABILITY PLATFORM / V4

Proven by work.

Merit should feel like the trusted proof layer for early-career work: elegant enough for students to be proud of, structured enough for recruiters to use, and serious enough for investors to believe.

Match is not magic. It is visible evidence mapped to role intent.

VISUAL SYSTEM

002 / 008

Premium proof infrastructure.

The V4 direction sharpens the current warm gallery. Gold becomes signal, blue becomes recruiter trust, green becomes validation, and real project artifacts stay central.

THREE ROUTES

003 / 008

A / RECOMMENDED

Premium Future Workforce

Institutional trust, precise evidence hierarchy, and artifact-first surfaces. Best route for students, recruiters, and investors together.

B / ACQUISITION

Modern Builder Culture

More electric, maker-led, and student-native. Good for campus energy, weaker for recruiter authority if used alone.

PROOF CARD SYSTEM

004 / 008

Make proof inspectable.

The project card should stop behaving like a social post and start behaving like a hiring evidence object. These are visual direction mocks, not app implementation.

PROVES / PRODUCT THINKING

Campus Spend Tracker

Built a budgeting prototype from survey insights, shipped interactive dashboard and pitch deck.

PROVES / DESIGN EXECUTION

Volunteer Match App

Designed onboarding and matching flows with testable role intent and accessibility improvements.

RECRUITER WORKSPACE

005 / 008

Buyer trust needs density.

Recruiters need a workspace that makes screening confidence visible: role fit, evidence strength, missing signals, and shortlist action.

ABILITY ADDED

First screen must show the product.

No abstract hero. No generic campus photos. The first viewport should show Merit as a proof layer: a passport, proof card, and recruiter fit panel in one composed scene.

Proof wins.

DESIGN FOCUS

Make Passport and Proof Card unmistakably credible.

Every screen should reinforce the same idea: work becomes evidence, evidence becomes signal, signal creates opportunity.

PRODUCT FOCUS

Prove recruiter confidence improves after reviewing structured proof.

Measure review completion, shortlist conversion, confidence lift, time-to-identify, and percentage of candidates with one strong proof card.
